

GOOD REPORTS FOR CRAWFORD

ALL SECTIONS OF COUNTY PREDICT SWEEPING VICTORY

During this week many men have been to Dothan from all sections of the county, and on being asked of the political situation, it is generally conceded that Crawford will carry the county by at least three to one. No man has been able to give any reason why Crawford should have opposition. They are all of the opinion that he was fairly nominated by the majority of the Democrats of the county, and most of them feel like the opposition candidate was brought out largely by other parties and they resent having an independent candidate in the field. Especially do they resent it when there is no excuse for it, other than the interest it would be to have a political grave made for Mr. Butler.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following couples by Judge Leslie: W. Curtis Williams, of Graceville, and Miss Inez Box, of Dothan, and for Morgan William Cozant, of Mobile, and Miss Pansy B. Peacock, of Greenwood, Fla.

"A RUNAWAY MATCH" PROVED A MEERY WHIRL

With a giggle, laugh and then a roar, "A Runaway Match," presented by the C. W. Park company last night, proved its title to the "merriest of comedies."

Charles M. Hoyt, although the author of many such comedies, couldn't have written anything funnier than last night's bill. The comedy is clean, and strictly in keeping with the rule set by Mr. Park.

Norman R. Fields was delightful as "Solomon," particularly in the second act. As a boarding house waiter he is above the average we have come in contact with. Miss Tucker, as "Millie Match," gave another finished performance. Miss Doris Benita was a clever "Mrs. Match." Mr. Bond and Mr. Ezell, as "Cuthbert Claxton" and "Son," gave as usual their best endeavors.

In fact, "A Runaway Match" is entertaining from the rise to the fall of the curtain.

Tonight, Goethe's masterpiece, "Faust," is the bill and as Mr. Park claims this production as the best he has to offer, he can look forward to a packed house. "The Belle of Richmond" is underlined for Saturday matinee, starting at 3 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Stevens are being congratulated upon the arrival of a fine girl at their home.

ELOPERS BEAT FATHER'S AUTO

ARE MARRIED IN MEMPHIS AND PARENT ACCEPTS DEFEAT GRACEFULLY

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 2.—Hotly pursued in an automobile by the bride's father, Miss Katherine Grigsby of Bardstown, Ky., and Dr. Walter Wright of Tulsa, Okla. distanced the obdurate parent by just twenty minutes and catching a train for Memphis, Tenn., were married. The elopement occurred on Monday but the facts were not made public until today when the couple returned to Louisville for the parental blessing which was obtained.

Miss Grigsby, who is a member of one of the most prominent families in Kentucky, left her home at Bardstown and came to Louisville to meet Dr. Wright. She had not reached Louisville, when her father, divining her purpose, telegraphed the Louisville police to stop her when she alighted from the train. Meantime, he started for Louisville in his automobile. Miss Grigsby, foreseeing the move, eluded the police by alighting at the edge of the city. She joined her sweetheart and in an automobile fled to a station on the Illinois Central, twenty miles away, where they took the train to Memphis, thus eluding the officers watching at all the Louisville railway stations.

Mr. Grigsby's objections to the match was grounded on the daughter's youth only, and he took his defeat with good grace.

HORSE RUNS INTO WINDOW

This afternoon shortly after 1 o'clock, as the circus parade was coming up East Main street, a delivery horse belonging to the Dozier Grocery, became frightened and ran his head through a glass window.

The horse was apparently calm until the band got near him, then he became frightened and in his blind fury because he could not see, he ran head foremost into a glass window, rearing on his head through the glass. He was not injured, although it took a good twist to get him out.

THE LYCEUM COURSE

The canvass for tickets to the seven number lyceum course, which the Sunday school class of Mrs. Wilson is seeking to secure for Dothan, is progressing favorably and will be finished in a few days. The class will not put the course on until a sufficient number of tickets are sold to insure the financial safety of the proposition, so that it behooves every citizen of Dothan who is interested in bringing to Dothan first class professional talent, to respond to this appeal of Mrs. Wilson and her class. It is an appeal for Dothan, and Dothan cannot fail to respond to any proposition which is for the good of the community.

The selections have been carefully made, with the sole view of securing some of the best available talent. The Gamble Concert Party is a strictly high class musical combination which has appeared in most of the large cities of the nation, before music clubs and at many of the conservatories of the country. And what is true of Gamble is true of Rouns and his orchestra, which is one of the oldest and best orchestras of the country. These two, with Frank Dixon, are well worth the price asked for a season ticket, so that the ticket holder gets four numbers free. Dothan people ought to respond to such a liberal proposition as Mrs. Wilson's class is offering. Do not wait to be seen, but call Mrs. Wilson by phone and give her your name for a ticket, for the money must be raised at once.

DOUGHTON RECEIVES JUDGMENT

James Doughton, of the City of Dothan, Alabama, who was sued by the City of Dothan, Alabama, for the sum of $250, was yesterday afternoon and allowed the City $250. This was one of the oldest cases on docket, and has been entered over a dozen times since entered.

SEVEN CAR LOADS OF BEER SEIZED

BIRMINGHAM REFORMERS GET WARRANTS FOR ATTACHMENTS

Birmingham, Nov. 2.—On warrants sworn out before Judge Fort of the Criminal Court by C. W. Austin, former chief of police and one of the leaders of the reformers in Birmingham, Deputy Sheriffs Chew and Sid Cowan attached and seized seven cars, loaded with beer, in the yards of the Illinois Central and Frisco railroads this morning. A car said to contain whiskey, was attached and seized last night under a similar warrant gotten out by C. W. Austin, the allegation being that this is a violation of the prohibition laws. The deputy sheriffs, after making the seizure, tacked notices on the cars, placed special locks on the doors and served a copy of the notice and the warrants under which the attachment was made on the railway officials.

The liquor is alleged to have been shipped to J. D. Evans, A. D. Walstrom, A. W. Farrish and Eugene Wertheimer, and it is said to have been shipped from Cincinnati, St. Louis and Chicago.

In some instances it was learned that some of the goods had been ordered shipped back to the starting point.

Attorneys representing the railway companies called on Judge Fort at noon today and made the claim that the interstate shipment had not been completed, notwithstanding the fact that bills of lading had been delivered to parties whose names were on the cars. There was a counter claim of collusion between the railroads and the local consignees.

COZANT PEACOCK

Mr. Morgan W. Cozant, of Mobile, and Miss Pansy Peacock, of Greenwood, Fla., were married in this city today at noon.

The ceremony took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Whitley, and was performed by Judge George Leslie.

The groom is a prosperous young business man of Mobile. The bride is a daughter of Mr. Frank Peacock, of Greenwood, Fla., and is a sister of Mrs. W. E. Whitley, of Dothan. She is well known in Dothan where she has visited several times.

The happy couple left this afternoon over the Coast Line for Mobile, where they will reside in the future.

W. M. Egan, of near Ashford, was in the city today.

W. L. Lee of Columbia is here attending court this week.

G. W. Kelly, of Headland, is in the city on business today.

M. A. North, of Gordon, was in town today and paid for the Weekly Eagle.

Booze Fighting

Look through the want columns of nearly any of the larger dailies and you will find ads that read something like this: "Wanted—Bright young man for so and so. No booze fighter or cigarette fiend need apply."

To the man looking for a job, and who hasn't either of these drawbacks, such a requirement has no terror. But how about the fellow who has been pulling cigarettes a dozen years, and shows it? How about the man who has been fighting booze for a time, for it will show on his face as plain as if stamped there with a rubber stamp in red ink.

This class of fellows may brace up before applying for the job, but they know that the old habits are laid aside for the time being. They know they cannot brace up, nine times in ten.

That is why you see so many bright young men, with much promise ahead of them, accept some responsible job, and then in a few weeks, fall out, and another is holding the job. This sort of thing will continue just as long as we have bright young men who drink and smoke cigarettes.

The older we become as a people, the less use the business world has for a man who drinks whiskey. Many institutions will not employ cigarette smokers.

When these habits hang on to one for several years, it takes unusual will power to swing clear of them.

Birmingham is having more fun over the seizing of the car loads of liquor shipped in there, than we were having about this time last year making arrests on people who were gathering their fall wines. It was a dull week when some man was not sat upon, his wines poured out, or his home entered in the search of booze. But Birmingham seems to be goaded into leading a different life, and we suspect it is because of the knocks that the Montgomery Journal and Mr. Judson have been administering the Birmingham district. If this thing keeps on, egg nog will be mighty scarce in Jefferson county during the next two months, just at a time, when every home is supposed to have the making of an egg nog.

So long as we have people who will go up in airships, and drive racing automobiles, just so long will the world continue to hear of accidents. That kind of sport would be no sport at all, if there was not an element of danger in it. No one would care to see an automobile speed around a track at ninety miles an hour, if it were on a track wound up, and propelled without the hand of men. No one would care about an airship that sailed 1,000 miles high, if no human life wasn't at stake. After all, we must admit, that the main attraction is the risk of human life involved.

Savannah sent out invitations to the various newspapers of Georgia, and some in Alabama to gather the first, and take a look at the arrangements made for the big meet there this week. While taking a spin in and the auto track, a car ran amuck and toppled two of the newspaper men out and fractured their skulls. Bad thing to do to guests, who were expected to go back home and furnish some hot air for the event.

In Chicago, where the garment makers have gone out on a strike, a lot of society women, dressed as garment makers and joined the crowd. The police charged them, whammed them with their clubs, arrested them, and then found out that they were dealing with the very thickest cream of Chicago's society. Engraved visiting cards were presented in lieu of bond, and to say that the police were baffled, was a mild term to use. They didn't have a clue even.

We have no interest whatever in Florida's election, but we imagine that the whiskey houses of Pensacola and Jacksonville are actively engaged in this campaign. To defeat the amendment would cut off their mail order business in Dothan, and hundreds of other dry towns in the desert.

The Constitution says that water is sometimes used in Savannah as a chaser. That is not all the way that water is used in Savannah, for it has a lot of water on the east side of town, used to float boats on. Some of the residents of Savannah may even use water for bathing purposes, but as for a chaser, never.

As yet there has been no fair excuse furnished as to why Troy street shouldn't be paved, other than the fact that it was not included in the original plans. It is the street that the government building fronts on. It is narrow, and would take nothing like the brick that are used on other streets.

When one rides out now over the excellent roads that have been built, and that are being built, it is hard to imagine why good roads were not started earlier. They are necessary, and no county should put off building them any longer.

Circuses are not what they once were to Dothan. There has been a time when this town went to circuses. Well they don't all stay at home now, but they don't turn out as they did ten and fifteen years ago.

No one should keep away from the polls next Tuesday because they don't consider their vote necessary. It is your duty to go out and vote anyway. You want to give the majority for the Democratic nominees in a substantial manner.

Now is the time to renew your subscription to this paper. You save a dollar by renewing during this contest, if you are getting the daily.

It is a great pity that the man who decides to commit suicide and kill out his family at the same time, doesn't start on himself.

A few weeks ago a millionaire of New York by the name of Rosenthal, ran over and killed a young lady with his automobile. He was arrested and his trial started the other day for murder. Now the information comes out that he had been on the jury.

Some of the men on the political stage would never be heard from if charges of crooked dealings were not brought against them.

The streets of Dothan will soon be open enough to have some first class runaways, except for the crowds that we have all the time.

On next Tuesday Florida is to see what she will do with the question that went before the people of Alabama a year ago.

Pennsylvania has more political graft, if possible than it had when it was building the state house.

Every day that passes over, the street paving in Dothan grows.

DEALING WITH THE UNFORESEEN

"I confess, my dear Mr. Drinkwater," said the village patriarch in a rather way, "that I don't like to give advice on matrimonial matters. A man may give such advice with the best intentions in the world, and his advice may be sound in wind and limb and without a blemish, but no soothsayer can foresee what is going to happen, however full of the prophetic fire he may be. If things go wrong, the man who got the advice usually hunts up the prophet and asks him to come out into the alley and have his head reamed."

"You say you are anxious to marry the dearest girl in the world, and she seems willing to take a chance, but you are earning only $12 a week. You have figured everything out and have come to the conclusion that you and your bride can live on $9 a week in genuine comfort, and thus have three bones for the building and loan association every Saturday. Before going ahead and asking a clergyman to perform the wedding rites, however, you come to me for advice. I am a fountain of wisdom and a shoreless ocean of useful information."

"My first impulse, my dear Mr. Drinkwater, is to urge you to go ahead with the wedding ceremony and trust in the ravens that fed Elijah to care for you if you lose your job or anything else goes wrong. The trouble is that something is pretty sure to go wrong. I do not speak as a pessimist."

"The first time I was married, I was just such an engaging and charming young man as you are, and my faith in the future was as sublime as yours. I was earning $10 a week then as a floor-walker in a feed store, but a dollar went many kilometers farther then than it does now. I was in love with Sarah Jane Flanagan, as fine a young woman as ever came down the pike. I figured things out, just as you have done. I provided for every imaginable contingency except the unforeseen, and it is always the unforeseen that knocks the underpinning from your exercises in arithmetic. Sarah Jane looked over my figures and agreed that it would be as easy to save $4 a week as to fall from an airship."

"So we were married and went to housekeeping in the sort of vine-covered cottage described by Hoyle and for about three weeks everything was about as lovely as a Democratic convention. Then the unforeseen began to happen."

"My wife had a maiden aunt who had an abominable weakness for visiting her relatives and staying until driven home by the militia. She came to our house and immediately began complaining of all the standard brands of rheumatism. I had to wear a path to the drug store, buying all kinds of liniment, and porous pasters and such things. Then she had to be dieted and she developed a fondness for oranges and oysters."

"I had the worst time of my life of her. Threats and entreaties were useless and I finally hired a vulgar to break into our house, wearing a mask and carrying a gun. He scared her so that she left the house by the window and took the cash along with her."

"When she left we

to the druggist and the doctor, but we were brave and hopeful, and in about three months we had everything paid up and were ready to conduct things according to the original plans. But the unforeseen was in ambush for us."

"The feed store of which I was the chief ornament was struck by lightning and burned down and I found myself in the same class with Colonel Othello, my occupation gone. I had to accept a position as jaintor of a milk wagon at $6 a week. Sometimes we were sorely pressed for the necessities of life that I was tempted to visit neighboring hen roosts at the dark of the moon."

"In time I got another job in a feed store at the old wages and the skies seemed bright again, but it was evident that Providence didn't approve of our plan to save money on $10 a week. Just when we were emerging from the slough of despond and debating as to which savings bank we would patronize, my wife was inconsiderate enough to fall down the cellar stairs and break two or three of her most useful bones. Then the surgeon took possession of the place and I still wonder when I think of their bill."

"You may draw your own conclusions from this painful history, my friend. I've always a good plan to get married, especially when you don't have to kidnap the girl, but when you borrow a blackboard and begin to do your figuring on just how much you'll salt down, be sure to make allowances for the unforeseen, or it will fly up and hit you on the shins when you least expect it."

WALT MASON.

No town will become a good business center so long as its business men rely on a few merchants to make the effort to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones that reach out for custom. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public-spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his part to attract people to come to town to trade in helping the entire business community, and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a larger territory in the circles in which the town is the business center.—Sterling (Kans.) Bulletin.

SILENCING TE BORES

One of Japan's very modern engineers, named Yamaskawa, is said to have conceived a method of silencing parliamentary bores, and because of his invention he is believed by a Shanghai correspondent to be a benefactor of the human race. Attached to each seat in the house of parliament he proposes to have a metal tube, the top being about the size of a 25-cent piece. Each member of the house is to receive a leaden ball or bullet on entering. These balls can be easily passed into the tube, which, carried under the floor, leads to a receptacle immediately under the place where a member stands when addressing the assembly.

The spot is like the trap door on the stage of a theatre. The trap is so arranged number of balls—not less than one half the members of the house—has reached the receptacle, the trap is made to descend automatically, carrying with it the garrulous speaker, or bore, as the case may be.

No points of order have to be raised. The displeasure of the house is manifest in silence. Away goes the bore, and another speaker is called upon.

H. H. Allen, of route 5, was in yesterday and changed his Weekly Eagle to the Daily, so that he could keep closer in touch with the things that happen in Dothan and Houston county. There are many of the people who live on the routes about Dothan who are taking the daily, since it is mailed to them for $3 a year. It is all a habit, and once they start it, they never stop.

If you have a friend who ought to live in Dothan, or Houston county, and does not, then send him The Dothan Eagle. That is the best thing for when he reads it a while, he will come to know the people of this section, and in time he will show up as a prospector. Then we will handle him.

WILLIAMS WINS AUTO

R. C. Williams, cashier of the Third National Bank, was the happy winner of the Demot "Blue Bird" runabout given away last night by the Paragon Pharmacy. The lucky number was 401, and caused a smile to break over the banker's face as the seal was broken.

The car was not raffled off, but was given as a prize to the soda water customers of this popular pharmacy. There were six hundred tickets to the machine, and Mr. Williams had six of them. People from all over the United States, mostly traveling men, who had been in Dothan and had purchased soda water at this drug store, had chances at the car, and there were many men, women and children in Dothan who sighed when the seal was broken and the winner announced.

The machine, as it was fitted out when given away, was valued at approximately $650, and was a prize upon which Mr. Williams received many congratulations.

THE CIRCUS IS HERE.

The famous Weilmann shows are here today and gave one performance this afternoon, but announced that they would not show tonight, probably because of the Park Company show.

A thousand Cornell students went to the theater one evening to hear Ethel Barrymore. As the play progressed the young men admiringly watched the pretty young actress every move, clung to each word she spoke, followed her every graceful gesture. At the fall of the first two curtains the applause was one better than thunder, and each time the pleased Miss Barrymore bowed her thanks to her enthusiastic admirers.

When the final curtain fell and when the valedictory applause died out a football cheer leader down in front jumped on to his seat and cried out, "Ready, men; the locomotive for Ethel!" And with the boom of the sea the famous yell of the old college sounded throughout the theater. When the yell died out the shout of "Speech, speech!" was taken up with an insistence and an enthusiasm that clearly would brook no denial.

After a moment's pause the curtain was pushed aside, and out came Miss Barrymore, half smiling and half afraid. She toyed for a second or two with a hat she held in her hands, and then, as she laughed that familiar little nervous laugh of hers, she said, "Oh, say, fellows, I can't make a speech, so let's all sing!"

The "fellows" were on their feet in an instant, and there, from the stage, Ethel Barrymore, the girl, swung with them into the chorus of their alma mater's battle song, "Far Above Cayuga's Waters."—Ladies' Home Journal.

A SUBSTANTIAL INSTITUTION

Always prospers. The opening of the Campbell Institute of Shorthand and Accounting in Dothan, Ala., on Oct. 8rd 1910 is the beginning of what promises to be one of the most substantial business colleges in Alabama.

The young people do not have to go to the large cities and spend a small fortune getting a first class commercial training.

A good school of Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting and Commercial English, in a good little city, under the direct supervision of an experienced business college man, invites the youth of the South to accept this superior training at a very reasonable figure.

Importance Of Life Insurance

Do you realize the importance of Life Insurance? If not, you should begin thinking about it at once, for life is uncertain, and death sure; being the case, WHY DELAY?

To carry a policy with the Home Company that has just been organized in Dothan, will cost you over TWO CENTS A DAY, and sure you would not mind saving that small amount to know that when you died, your family would be well provided for.

Often you hear a man say "if I knew I was going to die soon, I would take out a policy," but that is a poor argument, as many a person has died not leaving a family One Dollar, because he thought he would live a long time.

This is where the uncertainty of life comes in, and where the wise man takes time by the forelock and provides for the future for those that are depending on him for protection.

My General Mgr.

DAY OR NIGHT

TWO BIG ROBBERIES OCCUR AT SELMA

Selma, Nov. 2.—The Police Department this morning reported two robberies of some magnitude which were committed during the time of the circus parade yesterday morning and during last night.

While the members of the family of Mr. John Donovan, who lives on Mabry street were up in the business portion of the city yesterday morning viewing the circus parade, some one entered the home.

The robbery was discovered immediately upon the return of the family to the residence. A search revealed that diamonds and jewelry to the amount of about $1,000 had been stolen during their absence.

The thief who entered the home is said to have gained admittance through the front door of the house. People living in the neighborhood are reported to have said that they saw a strange man go up on the front porch and go into the house. The police department is busy upon the case, but have no clue to the identity of the thief.

The second robbery was committed during the night when burglars entered the warehouse of the Tisser Hardware Company. The haul which they made there is believed to have been a large one, but how much was taken can not be determined until an inventory is taken, as the warehouse is packed with goods of every description and there is no way to tell what was taken from it.

The store of the Tisser Hardware Company on Broad street was burglarized about two weeks ago. At that time, pistols, guns, knives and other articles and money to the value of about $1,000 was taken.

LOST HIM HIS JOB.

A Thing He Couldn't Help No More Than the Babe Unborn.

Oswald Alfred leaned forward from the edge of his chair and stated his case to the lining of his cap as even he had never stated it before:

"It was like this, sir: I'd been to meet my lady an' gentleman at Victoria station (London, Chatham an' Dover, sir), an' the boat was very late, you see, an' they'd brought over a new French maid who'd never been in a car before, an' that's 'ow the 'ole affair came to 'appen, sir. It was a limousine, sir, forty-horse Feent, an' that piled up with luggage we was absolutely top 'eavy, but my gentleman 'e was always saying 'is car cost 'im quite enough without cab fares over an' above. I used to tell 'im 'ow it'd be on a skiddy night, but he wouldn't take a word, though he'd a rough enough side to 'is own tongue, an' I was going to give 'im notice when it 'appened in Sloane street on the way 'ome that night. I was coming along at a good pace, but not exceeding, an' the only other thing in the street was a tradesman's van same way, 'im on the near side, sir, and me coming up on the crown and blowing my horn. Suddenly 'e pulls right across me without ever 'olding out 'is 'and—right across me into Pont street, without showing a finger! There was only one thing to be done, an' I done it—took the corner myself, instead o' crashing into 'im, an' beat 'im round it too! But with all the grease on the road an' all that luggage on top we skidded somethink cruel an' took the pavement an' smashed our near door against one of them posts that are there to smash you. My lady an' gentleman weren't hurt—they can't say they were—nor yet the worse off, being insured. But the girl, she'd never been in a car before, an' there she sat beside me in front. It wasn't right, sir. She didn't know enough even to 'old on. Out she went an' got concussion, an' I lost my place for that!"

"A thing you could not help?"

"A thing I could no more help," declared Oswald Alfred, "than the babe unborn!"—From "The Man at the Wheel" by E. W. Hornung.

After a girl finds herself engaged to a man she begins to realize that there are others.
